Men battle to fight finish: UC Davis women cruise

TRINIDAD — Saturday's preview of the final Northern California Athletic Conference cross country championships indicated that much is yet to be decided on the men's side, but little left to do besides hand UC Davis the trophy in the women's battle.

UC Davis edged host Humboldt State, 36-37, to take the men's title of the Humboldt Invitational while the Aggie women ran away from the women's field with a perfect score of 15 points. The meet allowed all NCAC schools an early look at the Patrick's Point State Park course which will serve as the championship route on Nov. 1.

HSU Cross Country Coach David Wells said the meet was a good indicator of things to come in the last season of the NCAC, which disbands following the 1997-98 school year. He expects the men's team to battle UC Davis throughout the season as they did Saturday.

"We're in the hunt (for the conference championship)," Wells said. "This was a huge confidence boost for our group."

Placing third in the men's team race was Lane Community College with 61 points, followed by Chico State (146), CSU Stanislaus (159), San Francisco State (159) and Cal State Hayward (167).

The men's individual winner by a huge margin was Lane's Billy Harper with a time of 24 minutes, 32 seconds on the 5.1 mile course. Humboldt's Tim Miller was second in 25:40 and teammate Greg Phillips was fourth in 25:49.

UC Davis' Jeff Kaiser led the Aggies in fifth while Nate Bowen took seventh.

It was over early in the women's race, with individual champion Sarah Dickerman pacing UC Davis to the title. The leader clocked 17:48 over the 5K course.

Placing second through fourth, respectively, were Aggies' Megan Canova, Michelle Leinfelder and Mandi Reynolds. Kirstin Kabo took seventh overall to complete the scoring pack.

The team battle for second through fourth was a tight one, with CSU Stanislaus and Chico State both totalling 93 points and Humboldt State with 97. CSU Stanislaus was awarded second by virtue of a faster total team time.

Lane Community College was fifth with 115 points, followed by San Francisco State with 117.

Humboldt's top finisher was sophomore Leia Giambastiani, placing 11th in 19:02. Teammate Molly Alles took 14th in 19:23 and Rachel McGarva finished in 25th with a 19:56 clocking.

"We wanted to see how well we could finish after starting at a fast pace," Wells said, assessing his women's team's performance. "We hope to determine everyone's best race style by the end of the year."
